Marc's experience includes large-scale master planned residential communities, mixed-use developments, and urban retail environments. His project experience includes Canal Flats, B.C., Stapleton Redevelopment, Anthem in Broomfield CO, Prospect New Town in Longmont CO, Desert Mountain and Kierland Commons, both in Scottsdale Arizona. Marc has also completed many economic development planning and resource management projects for Colorado municipalities, such as Douglas County, CO, and tribal governments, including the Standing Rock Sioux Tribe, Spokane Tribe, and Navajo Nation, as well as the Government of Grenada in the West Indies.

Resort & Hospitality

Marc's resort and hospitality experience includes design and project management for some of the world's top destinations such as The Four Seasons Hualalai, The Four Seasons Maui, and The Peninsula Hotel, Beverly Hills, California. His international resort experience includes projects in Puerto Rico, China, Belize, Japan and Grenada, West Indies. Marc understands the many challenges and demands of working in pristine coastal and mountain environments. He is adept at balancing the operational needs of the resort with the protection of the fragile local environment, while providing an exceptional guest experience that respects and celebrates local culture.

Gardens and Residential Properties

Early in his career, Marc worked at The Betty Ford Alpine Gardens in Vail, Colorado – a world-class botanical garden that features a unique collection of alpine plants. Since then, Marc has applied this hands-on horticultural experience, as well as a deep knowledge of classical gardens, to the artful design of estate properties. Notable projects include the complete site planning and garden design for high-end residences in Aspen, Malibu and Seattle. Other notable work includes several design collaborations with renowned architect Kevin A. Clark on a 10-acre Tuscan-inspired project in Cherry Hills, Colorado, a Spanish-revival project in Montecito, California, and a historic plantation cottage and gardens in Hanalei, Hawaii.
