

4-8 YEAR NATURAL RESOURCES COORDINATOR/LANDSCAPE ARCHITECT

JOB DESCRIPTION

DHM Design Corporation has an opening in our Carbondale office for a Natural Resource Coordinator / Landscape Architect/Designer with 4-8 years of experience. This staff member will work with our ecology team and our landscape architecture staff, focusing on design and implementation projects with an emphasis on improving natural resources, conservation, recreation, and habitat values. Depending on experience, this staff may also support comprehensive/policy planning, National Parks Service, and NEPA projects. Our ecology-focused client base includes land trusts, conservation organizations, public land management agencies at the local, state, and federal level, and private property owners.

DHM DESIGN

DHM Design is an employee-owned landscape architecture and ecological planning firm that provides a range of services, including landscape architecture, land planning, graphic design and environmental planning to clients nationwide. With a comprehensive ecological services division, we approach each new project with a grounded, site-based, and locally-focused perspective. DHM has 5 offices located in Denver, Carbondale, Durango, CO and Bozeman and Missoula, MT. Our experience embraces a diverse portfolio of planning and design projects: • National Park Service • Resorts and Communities • Historic and Civic Facilities • Parks, Open Space, and Greenways • Mixed-use Developments • Urban Transportation Systems • Private Estates • Rural Properties

EDUCATION

Landscape Architecture degree is preferred. Candidates with relevant professional experience in ecological design services, planning, and construction implementation will be considered. NEPA experience is a plus.

COVID-19

We are actively transitioning back to full use of our studio space with some staff in the office daily and others working remotely full or part time. This position requires full-time presence in-studio unless there is a broader public health requirement that the studio be closed or the staff member is required to quarantine. We continuously review our policies to allow us to conduct business safely and effectively.

EXPERIENCE LEVEL

We are searching for a well-rounded, project-management level natural resources coordinator to work hand-in-hand with DHM principals to organize, manage, and deliver on a wide variety of ecological planning, land stewardship, restoration, and ecologically-focused landscape architecture projects. Ability to advance work independently, motivated and committed work ethic, and management of staff resources are critical expectations of this role.

- 4-8 years of experience
- Project Management including budgeting, scheduling, and overseeing staff
- Construction observation and administration experience
- Natural resources and restoration project experience
- Ability to communicate with appropriate graphic skills
- Proficiency in AutoCAD, Adobe CS (Photoshop, InDesign Illustrator), and hand drawing
- Ability to work collaboratively in a close team environment
- Strong technical writing and organizational skills
- Self-motivation with the ability to manage and mentor team members
- A passion for creativity
- Enthusiasm for the profession with an ability to work independently

STUDIO CULTURE

Carbondale, Colorado

A quiet mountain town on the western slope of the Continental Divide, Carbondale is a historic community of 7,000 people with a rich artistic identity.

Our office is located on Main Street right in the heart of our town's Colorado Creative Arts District. Inside, we celebrate an eclectic style from our collaborative design studio space to individual working areas that allow for free flow of ideas across people and projects.

Nature is truly out our front door with the 13,000' Mount Sopris as our datum directly south of town and the confluence of the Roaring Fork and Crystal Rivers to the north. We are a diverse group of individuals who each, in our own way, draw inspiration from this environment.

At lunch, you often find us choosing between lively cafes and restaurants along Main or at the seasonal Farmer's Market down the street. Many people bike or walk to work and we love to take advantage of the trails and open space for a quiet respite to recharge our creative energy. True Nature Healing Arts Center is one of our hallmark projects just a couple minutes walk away, with a reflexology path, yoga studio and many community events throughout the year.

We understand how important camaraderie and convenience are to the work/life balance. Our schedules are flexible to accommodate early risers or childcare and we provide formalized programs for continuing education, mentorship and socializing. We all strive to volunteer within the community to support local causes and events, and work with organizations to make our world a better place.

No two months are the same here, as we purposefully stretch our collective strengths across many different project sectors, including ranch planning, hospitality, parks and recreation. We provide services to clients from Calgary to the Navajo Nation, world class ski resorts and many amazing places in between. The firm became employee owned in 2001 and we now have a total of 60 employees across the four studios. The Carbondale office has a staff of 15, and is home base to our ecological services leadership.

Our company goals are to provide the highest level of design and professional growth while also maintaining the active, mountain west lifestyle that is part of where we live and who we are.

We look forward to making you a part of this team!
