- Knowledge of local planting and hardscape materials, site grading and construction/site detailing
- Strong design and organizational skills
- Have a creative and inquisitive mind and open to learning from others

DENVER STUDIO CULTURE

Surrounded by expansive views to the Front Range, our third-floor studio is a sunny space where creativity blooms.

Our historic brick building originally housed the Model-T production line for the Ford Motor Company until it was renovated to support creative industries, including architects, web developers, engineers and us! Located at the junction of I-25, Broadway, the South Platte River and RTD Light Rail, we are centrally located to walk, bike or drive downtown or out of town for adventure.

Whether it's taking one of our communal cruiser bikes for a trip to Taco Tuesday at Adelitas, grabbing groceries at the Sprouts behind the parking garage or playing pool in the design studio, we understand how important camaraderie and convenience are to the work/life balance. Our schedules are flexible to accommodate early risers or childcare and we provide formalized programs for continuing education, mentorship and socializing. With monthly Sketch Club meetings, a rotating fleet of food trucks out front, annual ski and camping trips and participation in wellness challenges, there's never a dull week.

The Mile High City offers year-round activities, from neighborhood street fairs to concerts at Red Rocks to the largest annual Stock Show in the country. We are a short drive to the mountains of Colorado where you can ski, hike or ride your mountain bike. If you are more of a spectator, we are only minutes away from professional football, basketball, and hockey. We often plan a night together to watch baseball at nearby Coors Field. We all strive to volunteer within the community to support local causes and events, and work with organizations to make our world a better place. We are committed to providing the highest level of design and professional growth while also maintaining the active, mountain west lifestyle that is part of who we are and where we live.

We look forward to making you a part of this team!
